

The B&B

Caterina and Daniele have realized one of their dreams: they have created the B&B “Redolo” showing their wish of hospitality and cultural exchange.

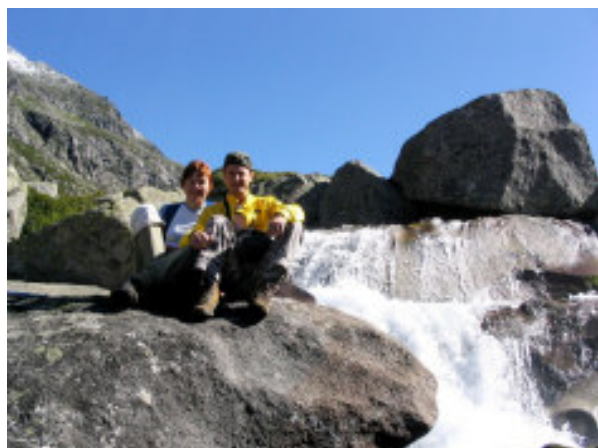

That’s why, who chooses this B&B does not want only a place where to spend the night, but a lively environment, that transmits the taste for Valcamonica beauty and the sense of welcome of simple people, typical of country folk in this Valley.

The B&B “Redolo” is in Malegno, along the Via Valeriana, in the hills among vineyards.

The ancient Via Valeriana, name attributed to the roman consul Publio Aurelio, in the Middle Ages joined Franciacorta and Valcamonica and it was covered by merchants and pilgrims. It is characterized by cobblestone paving and dry walls, intact and well preserved, heedless of passing of time, of progress and of modernity.

CURIOSITY

The term “redolo” is the name of the resort where we are and it means “return”, since before the building of the bridge, in about 1700, people had to go down as far as the Lanico torrent and to go up on the opposite side to reach the zone.

WHERE WE ARE

Valcamonica, the vastest Italian valley, is in the north-eastern part of Lombardy, with North-East and South-West orientation. It extends for about 80 km and it consists of 42 municipalities. Malegno is in the middle of it, in the province of Brescia. This valley leads from the Iseo Lake to Ponte di Legno and it becomes wilder and wilder as it goes up, among ruins of castles. It's famous for its extraordinary prehistoric rock carvings, included in the World Heritage List of Unesco, realized picking or scratching the smooth surface of rocks. It is possible to admire them in the National Park of rock carvings at Capo di Ponte and in the Regional Natural Reserve of Ceto, Cimbergo and Paspardo. Interesting sites testify also to the most recent Roman Empire dominion.

B & B "Redolo"

The Via Valeriana, under the sun also in winter, presents a particularly favourable climate. In sunny winter days you can enjoy a mild climate, so that it is called "the Riviera of Malegno" ... a quiet area where to walk.

For this reason it lends itself to the cultivation of the vine and winter crops.

During your stay this will be your home ... take care of it.

The house has been recently restored with great attention to energy saving. There are wooden doors and windows with double seals and VETROCAMERA BASSOEMISSIVA. A Velux glass partition provides the floodlighting of the area. A inside coat has been created as thermo-acoustic insulation. Lighting is provided by low consumption lamps. Taps are equipped with pressure reducers. Heating is independent with methane automatic convectors.

Arrangements have been made for the installation of solar panels to produce hot water.

Malegno Municipality received in July 2008, the ISO 14001 environmental certification as a town careful to problems concerning environment and energy.

The City Administration promotes the landscape and cultural enhancement of the place with eco-sustainable programs.
